CONSIDER THIS

It seems that all creation is celebrating, in honor of the Creator whose "finished" work cannot control its joy, once a year showing us, again, the wonders of Eden. The shrubs and flowers bloom in grand concert as the winged creatures sing their songs. The beasts of the ground frolic in youthful enthusiasm as the waters are filled with darting, sparkling, playing fish. The insects and creeping creatures chirp and croak in harmony, as God's world celebrates creation in all its glory. The first to anticipate the coming Spring, and perhaps the last to appreciate its significance is mankind. Somehow we have overlooked this celebration of life, as we become more jaded by man's unique problems. There are so many things going on that take our attention away from what nature is trying to tell us.

Spring is something special.

This world is not an accident.

Life is a gift to be celebrated.

Thinking again of the eventual coming of Spring, we need to ask the question, "Why do you look forward to Spring?" Although profundity would be preferred, perhaps the most apt answer for those of us living in Wisconsin in April might be, "Because I'm tired of being COLD!" We can't argue that immediate response, but we encourage you to think again - perhaps when it does warm up a little bit - and consider all that Spring means. I hope this stimulates you to look forward to, and enjoy Spring this year, giving praise to God for His wonderful works of creation.
